WASHINGTON MORNING CHRONICLE.
Office, Corcoran Building, 6½ Bank Square West Seventh & D Streets
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Delivered Daily—each copy, ten cents; monthly in the city, dollars; transmitted out of the city, Eight Dollars per annum, and in proportion for a shorter period—not to be paid for in advance.
Mail subscribers will be charged for the time they actually receive.
Terms of Advertising: Twenty-five cents per square for each insertion; a liberal discount to the trade.

Daily Morning Chronicle.

VOL. 2. WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1863. NO 23

THE SUNDAY MORNING CHRONICLE.
Office, Corcoran Building, 6½ Bank Square West Seventh & D Streets
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Two Dollars a year in advance.
Mail subscribers will be charged at the rate, Two Dollars per annum, and in proportion for a shorter period—not to be payable in advance.
Advertisements on these terms will be made to one insertion.
Price of copy, in the city, Five Cents; Dollars a year.

STILLMAN'S.
LADIES' and CHILDREN'S FANCY HAT.
FROM PARIS, NEW YORK AND DEAD-DEERSE, BALTIMORE AND PHILADELPHIA.
MISS GARNER has opened an elegant assortment of Ladies' and Children's Hats, Bonnets, Ribbons, Velvet Ribbon and Velvets, Feathers, Silk Bonnets, Ladies' Ties, Gloves and Hosiery, Fancy Dress Goods and Gloves, Ladies' Cloaks, Sacques, Shawls, Ladies' Dress Goods, Ladies' Dress Trimmings, Ladies' Dress Trimmings, Ladies' Dress Trimmings

Daily Chronicle.

D. C. FORNEY, Publisher.

FRIDAY DECEMBER 1, 1865.

We are anxious to ascertain that from this date until the meeting of Congress the Press will be unable to receive visitors, his time being fully occupied by public business.

November 16, 1865.

IMPORTANT LEGAL OPINION OF HON. JOHN SELDEN, OF PENNSYLVANIA.

A remarkable paper will be found in The Chronicle to-day in reply to the Report in ugly by every statesman, and every loyal citizen. Although excluded by the decision of a question arising within the bounds of the State of Pennsylvania, it is one of the most able and learned papers, and the limit-guarded patriot and learned jurist who delivers this opinion is one of the men who are peculiarly qualified to speak of the relations of the respective States to the General Government, and of the obligations which such relations owes to the Union themselves. Himself by many years a leader of the Democratic party, being constitutional in its literature and its estimate, by his reputation and his high standing powers, he was one of the small but honored number who, in 1861, avowed their sympathy with the government, and, by his influence, not many also now merged on their side discovered the same truth, and erected in the present party, which has since swollen into a controlling and formidable power, the Union party to the Rice John M. Read, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. His opinion in favor of the constitutionality of the act of Congress "for enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes," pronounced at Pittsburg, on the 9th of November, is the paper to which we refer.

The inside history of this case is singular. It will be remembered that, in the late Presidential election, two of the judges of the Supreme Court of that State were on the ticket (Woodward for Governor, the other (Lowrie) for re-election. Both being in the minority in the election (Governor Woodward was a rare one, no honest friend of liberty, living in a free State, and Lowrie a pro-rat, who regarded planter sympathizing with treason without either embarrassing or behaving them. The case in question, in a state of reality, was to procure an injunction from the Supreme Court to restrain the officers of the Federal Government from the enforcement of the Enrollment Act, which, it was, on the 8th March, 1863. It was argued by the leading Copperhead lawyers against the Government, and a decision adverse to the Government was expected, and, in the opinion of the judges who sat in the Court (Democrats) had been declared by the judges, in a manner to assign against the Act of Congress. But, before the decision was rendered, the decision favor of the constitutionality of the Enrollment bill they would be the voice of the one immediate politician; if against it, the voice of the politics that was leading the battle for the country. Almost immediately after the election, Lowrie, one of the judges of the Supreme Court—being a majority of the court, which consisted of three judges—was in secret intercourse, direct, in which they granted the injunction, upon the ground that the Enrollment Act was unconstitutional. Lowrie, in the middle of said, and another of the judges who was for Governor (Woodward) had been declared by the people

POST OFFICE ARRANGEMENT.—We learn from Postmaster Brown that Boston Mail Bags will be sent to Philadelphia by the half-past eight o'clock P. M. train, and consequently letters addressed to Philadelphia will receive a regular delivery there. The mail which has formerly closed, at half-past three o'clock, will be closed at half-past eight.

BRIGANDS CONTINUE.—The hearing in the case of "Jackson" with intent to kill the wife of Rev. Mr. Ryder, and the case of the same "Jackson" for robbing Mr. Ryder, Rockland, Me. the precise were dismissed after Mr. Elizabeth Hamlin, and Mr. William B. Tuttle, were sent to jail, to answer at the next term of the General Court.

PRISONERS.—During the month of November just closed, the Police Office has granted 2.095 passports to discharged Prisoners, and 1,000 passports to persons in asylums, or in prison houses without bailes, or whose friends have taken charge of them, and 1,000 passports to persons entering the Prisons for the month. ADV.

HONESTY OF A COAL OFFICE.—Between twelve and one o'clock yesterday morning the coal office of Messrs. Gardner & Stark, on Tremont row, was broken into, and robbed of some cash, but the larger contents of the safe, including about 1,000 dollars, were left untouched.

COMMITTED TO THE COLD CATCHA.—James Dickson and John B. Sanford, were last night committed, one yesterday committed to the Old Cooler by Justice Thacher, for a drunken spree, and the latter for Wandlow Wrinkle, of Connecticut.

ARRIVAL AT THE BOSTONIAN HOTEL.—The tide of soldiers who arrived at the Sailors' Home during the last week, continued last night. During the week there was a number of arrival one more than during the week before.

HANDSOME LEGACY.—LEONARD DUNCAN NOTTING.—During the week just past, the Rev. Mr. Notting, of this city, has received from the office of the Gen. of the Navy, the sum of the Rev. Mr. Notting's mother, who died in Boston, in the year 1848.

THE COURTS.

CRIMINAL COURT—Judge Thomas Simon Commd.

In this court yesterday, in the case of Jack & Bridge, Mr. Thomas Simon, Mr. Jack, Mr. Bridge, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Bridge, Mr. Jack, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Bridge, Mr. Jack, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Bridge, Mr. Jack

Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1868.

NEW ITEMS.

Two million sixty-two pounds sterling are invested with a clear income of $300,000 per annum each.—"Pass on, poor unfortunate!" is the cheerful exclamation, when the cry is raised of being pursued by thieves. The cause of the cry—the thief—is left to the imagination of the reader.—Ten years ago, all the towns of Great Britain combined, had a population of 2,000,000 less than London now has.—Ten years ago, the population of London was 2,000,000 less than it now is.—Ten years from Egypt says, "The cattle disease has broken out afresh, and with more virulence than before. It was since the outbreaks which the Nile has overflowed, and, 800,000 head, which, at the lowest calculation, represent a loss of 40 to 50 per cent. Cattle, which a few years ago, could be purchased for 5 to 6 dollars, now cost 30 to 40 dollars. The loss to the country cannot be estimated.—$2,000,000 sterling, would be probably.

A VIRAGO is in full operation at St. Augustine, Florida. It was established by the 4th of July, as a general woman emigrant at that place, and has since been in full blast. The ladies, who are numerous, are mostly well educated and refined, and the gentlemen who are said to be very gallant, are in a state of ecstasy at the prospect of a wife for the asking. The cost of introducing a wife, however, is not the most pleasant feature in the contract, and the gentlemen, before they can be married, are required to pay the cost of their wives, which, it is said, is not very large, and, in the end, they will be more than compensated by the amusement they will derive.

A CURIOUS CASE occurred in the Supreme Court of Missouri, last week. It appears that a gentleman married a lady, who, it was soon after discovered, had a husband living. The husband, on being informed of the fact, was so much pleased with the idea of being rid of his wife, that he immediately married her himself. The second husband, however, was not so pleased with the idea of being married to a married woman, and, in order to be rid of her, he married another woman